

contrast-or-topic

The diagram illustrates the focus structure of the sentence "Kim is in SEATTLE.". At the top, a rounded rectangular box contains the text "contrast-or-topic". A line descends from this box and splits into two arrows. The left arrow points down to the word "Kim", and the right arrow points down to the word "SEATTLE.". Below the sentence, another rounded rectangular box contains the text "semantic-focus". A line descends from this box and splits into two arrows. The left arrow points up to the word "is", and the right arrow points up to the word "SEATTLE.".

Kim is in SEATTLE.

semantic-focus